

*Renault-Bursa / New Headquarters And Social Building
(Limited Competition), 2004*

This project has been selected as one of the two finalists.

The design process has been guided by the architectural specification's called for "a building that would reflect the image and quality of the Renault brand; a building that would indicate a high level of contemporary architectural consistency and visual identity without exaggeration or extravagance".

The plan is composed of three squares each having courtyard. These courtyards bring daylight and greenery into various spaces inside the building. An interior street designed between the two squares provides pedestrian circulation as well as natural light and special diversity.